Washington, who intends to dispose of them, by private or public sale, on Saturday next at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

April 7.

A Museum is not only an ornament to a city, but it is a continual and abundant source of information for the citizens at large.

Besides, such an enterprize is very lucrative and advantageous to the owner; for it is a real and rich property daily increasing by the liberal and voluntary gifts from some well spirited men, travellers and navigators, who present that useful establishment with admirable productions of nature and art.

A very considerable revenue yearly illues from it: In Boston, New York and Philadelphia, it is not less than two thousand dollars yearly receipt. Even in the small city of Hartford, (Conn.) a Museum is sufficient to support the family of a gentleman formerly a minister. As Alexandria is fast increasing in commerce and population, the institution of a Museum will add to the importance and splendor of the town, and would be of great advantage to the owner.

DEBATE.

Upon Mr. Griswold resolution, to institute an investigation of the report of the commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

Mr. Nicholson said, he would beg the indulgence of the house, while he offered a few remarks. These he would have thought totally unnecessary, if the observations of the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Griswold) had not been of a nature calculated to make an improper impression abroad. Whether it was the object of the gentleman, by postponing his motion to settle a period of the session, to preclude enquiry altogether, and thereby to induce a belief that he had given a fair statement of the report of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, he should not now undertake to determine; but he would say, that there was strong ground to believe that this was his object. If enquiry, and enquiry alone was his object, why not lay the resolution on the table, and suffer it immediately to be referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, in order that enquiry might be made? Why accompany it with observations calculated only to excite a belief that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund have been guilty of the grossest misconduct.

Through the various calculations which the gentleman had gone, in order to show an erroneous statement of the interest on the debt, it was impossible to follow him; nor was there time to make statements in the house, to meet those that the gentleman had prepared at his leisure in his closet. He should leave this, therefore, for the Committee of Ways and Means, when the resolution came before them, and he ventured, without hesitation, to predict that the error would be found on the side of the member from Connecticut. This part of the subject, therefore, he would leave to future investigation, and proceed directly to the two great points which seemed to be the gentleman's favorites, and upon which he appeared to expect to make the strongest impression.

Those were first, that the commissioners of the Sinking Fund had not applied the whole sum of 7,300,000 dollars, agreeably to the law of the last session and secondly, that there was a deficiency of one hundred and fourteen thousand dollars against the commissioners, which they had not accounted for.

On the first point he would endeavor to show that much more than the sum of 7,300,000 dollars had been applied agreeably to law.

In the 6th page of the report of the commissioners, they state their disbursements to have been applied.

1st. To the payments of the interest which during 1802, accrued on the whole of the public debt amounting to

dolls. 4,065,738 47

2d. To the payments of the principal of the Dutch debt,

3d. Advanced to commissioners of loans, for the reimbursement of the 8th installment of the 6 per cent stock, the second installment of the deferred stock due January 1st, 1803.

4th. To pay temporary loans from the bank (exclusive of the proceeds of the Bank shares.)

dolls. 2,400

5th. Debts due to foreign officers,

dolls. 7,994 92

6th. On account of certain parts of the domestic debt,

dolls. 14,966 84

7th. Advanced to purchase bills in Holland, to meet that part of the Dutch debt which falls due in the first of the year 1803, to the amount of 3,600,760 guilders at 41 cts. the guilder

Making in the whole paid on account of the debt

Or 729,000 dollars more than was actually required.

The four first items in this statement the gentleman from Connecticut admits as having been applied agreeably to law, and they amount to dollars. 7,530,000 84, the fifth and sixth he took no notice of; but the seventh he combated with all his energy, in order to show that it was not a proper charge upon the fund of dollars. 7,300,000. Let us then examine this question, and see whether the gentleman's position is correct, that the whole sum of dolls. 7,300,000 is to be applied to the discharge of debt due in any one year. The first section of the act of the last session provides that the sum of 7,300,000 dollars shall be appropriated to the Sinking Fund yearly, to be applied to the payment of interest and charges, and to the reimbursement and redemption of the principal of the public debt; and in the same section there is a proviso, 'that after the whole of the said debt (except the 6 per cent stock, the deferred stock the 96 six per cent stock, & the 3 per cent stock) shall have been reimbursed or redeemed any balance of the sums annually appropriated by this act remaining unexpended at the expiration of six months next succeeding the end of the Calendar year to which such annual appropriation refers, shall be carried to the surplus fund.' Now sir, said Mr. N. I beg leave to ask if this proviso contemplates that the whole sum of seven million three hundred thousand dollars shall be applied to the discharge of debts actually due (though not payable) in any one Calendar year; or in other words between the 1st day of January and the 31st of December? Does it not suppose that a balance of the 7,300,000 dollars may remain in the hands of the commissioners of the sinking fund at the expiration of the year, & does it not provide that after certain species of debts are extinguished, that such balance shall go to the surplus fund at the expiration of six months after the end of the year? If the construction of the gentleman is correct the proviso is absurd: it is a perfect nullity in itself. The proviso in fact does suppose that a balance of the 7,300,000 dollars may remain after discharging all the demands which can be made against the United States in any one year, and does leave that balance in the hands of the commissioners to be applied in such manner as they think proper, until the whole debt is extinguished, except those kinds which have just been mentioned. What then sir, has been the conduct of the commissioners of the sinking fund? They have reimbursed all the principal both of the foreign and domestic debt, which was payable in the year 1802, they have paid all the interest which was due in that year, the two amounting to 6,552,970 dollars. 60 cents and finding a balance in their hands after discharging all the demands against the government, which could be made for that year, they have applied that balance amounting to 749,019 dollars. 40 cents, together with the further sum of 729,282 dollars. 20 cents to the purchase of bills of exchange on Holland in order to meet the debt of the next year.

In order farther to show that this was the intention of the law it may be well to refer to the documents of the last year upon which the law was passed. It has been already seen that the legal demands against the government for 1802 could not exceed the sum of dollars 6,552,970 60 cents yet it was deemed expedient to appropriate the sum of dollars 7,300,000 or dollars 747,019 40 cents more than the amount of the demand. Will any gentleman now be so obliging as to inform me why this excess of appropriation was made. Sir, the reason is plain and obvious. It was that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, might in each year have in their hands, such a sum, after discharging all legal demands against the government for that year, as would enable them to make the necessary advances to meet the Dutch debt in the next year, in case the state of the treasury should not authorize the disbursement of more money under the 2d section of the act; to prove that this was the idea at the time, I beg gentlemen to refer to the statement (R) accompanying the report of the Secretary of the treasury last year; upon which it will be acknowledged that this law was passed.

Foreign Intelligence.

Paris Papers to the 23d February, were received in London, which announce the meeting of the legislative body on the 21st. The Moniteur of the 23d, contains an official view of the present situation of the republic, prepared for the legislative body. This important and curious paper is signed by Bonaparte. It embraces a variety of objects. It states that upwards of twenty thousand French manufacturers, dispersed through Europe, have returned to their respective vocations in the republic. That "St. Domingo had submitted, and the author of its troubles was in the power of France: every thing, in short announced the return of its prosperity, when by horrid disease, it was devoted to renewed calamity; but the plague that disolated the army has now ceased its ravages, and the forces that remain in the colony, together with those which will speedily arrive, cannot fail to restore it to peace and prosperity." That "Batavia is gradually regaining possession of the colonies restored to her by the peace; but she ought never to forget, that France can be to her only the most useful friend, or the most dangerous enemy." In speaking of the division of parties in England, it says, "One has concluded the peace, and is decidedly inclined to maintain it; while the other has sworn an implacable hatred to France; hence arises that fluctuation in opinions, and in the senate that attitude which is at once pacific and threatening. As long as this contest of parties continues, there are certain prudential measures necessary on the part of the republic. Five hundred thousand men must and will be ready to defend and avenge it."

The report that Spain is about to cede the Floridas to France in consideration of Parma and Piacenza being added to Etruria, has been revived on the continent with increased confidence.

The French papers contain a copy of the new constitution granted by Bonaparte, in the character of a mediator, to the people of Switzerland. This constitution bears a federal character, and abolishes many of the ancient aristocratical privileges. The cantons are divided into three classes, viz. the Aristocratic, the Democratic, and the New Cantons. The diet is to assemble every year, in one of the six great towns, and is to sit for six months.

We have extracted the following from the London Courier of the 1st March:

Gen. Kosciuszko, now lives in a modest retirement in a country house near Paris. Since the fate of his native country was ultimately determined, it seems as if he were not the same man: his looks, formerly pale and fallow, are now fresh and healthy. He now enters with gaiety into the enjoyment of all the common pleasures of life. He has ceased to carry the snuff box on which was painted a ship shattered by the storm, with the motto, "My poor country." His friends and countrymen at Paris regularly celebrate the anniversary of his birth day.

On the 16th ult. as the Acasto frigate was coming to Portsmouth, from Leith, she was driven by adverse winds on the French coast, when she struck on the Flemish Rocks, and afterwards dropped anchor; a boat was hoisted out with lieutenant Galway, the master, and eight men, to make soundings, when she upset, and every soul perished! The ship arrived at Portsmouth, on Thursday, without the least damage.

The first part of the French civil code was presented to the legislative assembly by three of the government orators on the 23d ult. Portalis, in a long speech on the assembly, developed the motives and explained the principles of it. The principal persons who successfully opposed it when it was last under discussion, are no longer in either of the legislative bodies—it will therefore probably be adopted without much opposition.

Arrivals since our last.

Brig Mary, Young, 30 days from Jamaica. On the 10th of March, spoke the brig Sarah, captain Hudgins 15 days from St. Jago de Cuba, bound for Copenhagen, who had spoken on the 6th off Cape Antonio, the brig Polly, captain Henry Foster, 47 days from Liverpool, bound for New Orleans. ### Communication.

TO THE RESIDENTS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, WHO ARE FREEHOLDERS IN THE COUNTY OF FAIRFAX.

IN consequence of the violent opposition made at the late Prince William election, to one of our citizens voting, although he was born in Virginia and a freeholder in the county, and his property liable to be taxed by the state and national legislatures—I have turned my attention to the propriety of the objection made to his vote—which was, that he was no resident of the county.

This objection is made in the face of the law, the state constitution, and the bill of rights. The bill of rights, in the 6th section thereof, declares, "That elections of members to serve as representatives of the people, in Assembly, ought to be free; and that all men, having sufficient evidence of permanent common interest with, and attachment to the community, have the right of suffrage."

The 7th section of the state constitution declares—"That the right of suffrage, in the election of members of both houses, shall remain as exercised at present." The bill of rights and constitution were adopted in May, 1776.

By an act of the Assembly passed in the year 1775, the first section of it declares, "That the Freeholders of every county, township, or hereafter shall be in the dominion now have, & forever shall have the privilege and liberty of electing and choosing two of the most fit and able men of their county to be present and vote in all general assemblies." This act was continued in the year 1768, & will be found in the 18th page of the revised code of 1769, and was the only law in force in 1776, when the bill of rights and constitution of the state were adopted—by this law, being a freeholder was sufficient qualification—notwithstanding the bill of rights and the constitution, the democrats have denied the right, and attempted to prevent a citizen from voting.

hoped you will not yield to this oppress-that you will, notwithstanding the towns and insults of these deceivers of the people, and only artificers in America, be at the election and vote; and thus by acts prove yourselves to be what you have always professed, friends to the constitution and the just rights of the people. I trust you will not admit, by words or by passive submission, that either Congress or the state legislature, can constitutionally tax your hearth in Virginia, without giving you a voice in the election of those who are to impose the tax.

The democrats are now by their conduct supporting the principle of "taxation without representation." It was against this principle our forefathers contended. It was an attempt on the part of the British government, to exercise this principle towards these states that induced the patriots of 1776 to take up arms—yet do we find the same attempt made again by those who arrogate to themselves exclusively the titles of "republicans" and "patriots." This is an attempt I hope you, by your decided and manly conduct, will frustrate, and give to the world a proof of your unshaken attachment to the cause of real republicanism, by being among the first on the election ground.

Federal Republican.

Mr. Snowden—Had not Mr. Longden put on the cap, which he thought was intended for him, as it fits well without a "measure," you would not have been troubled with my "wilderness of Federalism;" but as it would be unworthy my motives, to distress a capitulating enemy, I shall for the present grant a safe retreat. If I understand the gentleman, he would insinuate that Federalism was a composition of "Tory, Federalist, and Royalist;" a pretty observation for a person who claims an exclusive privilege of being a friend to the rights of man and constitution—what insinuation! As the gentleman may not be uneasy about my residence and political principles, I will acquaint him that I have resided in this town some years, was born in the district, and ever since I could mature an idea have been a Republican; and yet, (since ours has become a Federal Government) a Federalist, which I hope to live and die.
Had not the gentleman lost that calmness so requisite to an officer, he must have been sensible that my observations were not levelled at him (tho' the cap fits) as he cannot compel any person to muster under him, but those who voluntarily enroll themselves. I am sensible that amongst the officers there are some very worthy men; yet I maintain it, they are the Colonel's officers, two or three excepted, and if I am provoked again to touch the subject, will go into a general detail.
To conclude, had Mr. L. invited me to his political mill and officer manufactory, I should have done myself the honor of waiting on him.

A SUBSCRIBER.

One Henry Putnam, of Georgia, has sued the proprietors of this paper for a libel against his fame, good name, and reputation. The people of Georgia may be a little surprised at this, but it is not more strange than true. Putnam was appointed by Mr. Jefferson to command a revenue cutter.

is the part of patriotism to check these Smilie says, its down right tyranny.

"Our politicians are busily anticipating the consequences of the cession to Louisiana to the French, and among them see the danger to be apprehended, from Bonaparte's enterprising spirit, to the prosperity and integrity of the United States. It seems to be generally hoped, that a jealousy of his views, will tend to lay the violent party spirit, which has been so prevalent among you, from the obvious propriety of uniting to counteract them. Here, I think the most enthusiastic admirer of the Corsican Hero, has given place to the most unqualified execration of his principles, and surprize at the ad-macy of his conduct, and his unparalleled success in trampling upon the rights and privileges of his neighbours and subjects."

FROM THE FEDERAL REPUBLICAN.
Extracts from a very valuable French Book, little known in America, entitled,
"The Agronomer, or The Farmer's Pocket Dictionary."

To multiply the increase of Corn of any kind.

TAKE of the dung of the cow, goat, sheep and pigeon, and of salt petre, each one pound. Put them all into two or three gallons of water, and let them stand covered several days. Strain the liquid through a sieve or coarse cloth, and let your seed corn moisten therein for eight hours; take it out, and put it in a convenient corner of your granary; stir it well and often during several hours after. This receipt is adapted to 160 pounds weight of corn.

ANOTHER.

PUT 20 pounds of lime into a barrel, and pour on it 10 gallons of rain or river water. Then put 120 pounds of corn into a basket, and let it remain eight hours.
Take it out, plunge it into another vessel, in which there is a quantity of water, in which you have previously dissolved three pounds of common salt or salt petre.

ANOTHER.

TAKE as much of the water of your richest dunghill as you choose. Soak your seed in it 24 hours, dry it in the shade, & then (when dry) sow it.

To prevent the Smut in Wheat.

MOISTEN it well with a liquor composed of lime water, in which ashes, common salt and pigeon dung have been infused several hours. A light solution of alum and verdigrease has also been used for this purpose.

To prepare Seed to be sown on poor and sandy Land.

TAKE 12 or 13 pounds of sheep's dung, which you will boil, dregs and all, in a good deal of water—Dissolve three or four pounds of salt petre, and infuse in this pickle for eight hours a bushel of new wheat, &c. Dry it in an airy place, not much exposed to the sun. Repeat this operation several times, and sow your grain thinly.

The author of the book from which these receipts are extracted, asserts, "That from experience it is known that every grain of the prepared seed produces seven or eight stalks at least, and each of the stalks produces ears of more than 50 grains of corn in each." He also informs "that more than 60 stalks have been counted in one foot."—He continues:

"I. Grain thus prepared starts sooner than when sown in the usual method.
II. The birds are not so fond of feeding on it. III. It grows thick and large but ought to be sown thinner than usual.

"Grain produced from seed thus prepared, is not so liable to blast, to smut, or mildew, as unprepared corn."

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

From Domestic Encyclopedia.

Mr. Boulard, architect at Lyons, has lately invented a very simple preparation, attended with little expence or trouble, and admirably calculated to defend wooden materials from being consumed by flames, though exposed to their influence for two hours. After many tedious experiments, he found that a solution of potash is the most efficacious liquid for resisting the action of fire longer than any other fluid. That observation induced him to apply that substance in a kind of paint or coating on wood which was completely rendered fire proof, in the following easy manner: dissolve such a quantity of pot ash in cold water as that fluid is capable of holding in solution, wash or daub with it all the boards, waincoating, shingles, &c. which are intended to be prepared. Then dilute the same liquor, with a little water; add to it such a portion of fine yellow clay as will make the mixture of the consistence of the common paint employed on wood; and lastly, stir it into a small quantity of flour paste, in order to combine both substances intimately.

With this mixture all wooden materials, ought to be coated three or four times similar to painting work. Thus, wood will be secured from the action of fire, though exposed to it for a time exceeding two hours; but the greatest advantage of this excellent preparation consists in the circumstance, that it prevents the wood from ever bursting into flames—Mr. Boulard remarks, that 20 lbs. sifted yellow clay, 1 1/2 lb. of flour for making the paste and 1 lb. pot ash, are sufficient to prepare a square rood (French measure and weight) of deal boards; so that the expences, when compared with the importance of the object, are indeed trifling. It is further deserving of notice, that even furniture made of wood, such as chairs, tables, &c. and particularly the stair cases and the flooring of dwelling houses, may be so far enabled to resist the ravages of the fire, that they are only reduced to coals, or embers, without spreading the conflagration by additional flames: meanwhile, there are gained at least two hours, during which, all valuable effects may be removed to a place of safety, and the lives of the family at the same time, rescued from danger.

of the City of Philadelphia,
FOR PUBLISHING IN VOLUMES,

THAT USEFUL AND POPULAR WORK,

THE Domestic Encyclopædia, OR, A DICTIONARY OF FACTS, AND USEFUL KNOWLEDGE:

COMPREHENDING
A concise view of the latest discoveries, inventions, and improvements, chiefly applicable to rural and domestic economy.

TOGETHER WITH
Descriptions of the most interesting objects of nature and art; the history of men and animals, in a state of health or disease; and practical hints respecting the arts and manufactures, both family and commercial.

Illustrated with numerous Engravings and Cuts.

By A. F. M. WILKINSON, A. M., Author of the Letters on Diet and Regimen, &c. &c.

FIRST AMERICAN EDITION, With additions, applicable to the present situation of the U. States,

By JAMES MEASE, M. D.
Fellow of the American Philosophical Society,

And Corresponding Member of the Literary and Phil. Soc. at Manchester.

From the above general contents of the work, it will be easily conceived that the nature of the Domestic Encyclopædia is peculiarly adapted to the present wants of the United States. Perhaps it contains a greater number of useful facts than have ever appeared in the compass of four moderate volumes. No pains, trouble, or expense appear to have been spared to render this economical dictionary as complete as the present advancement of agriculture, gardening, of the familiar arts and manufactures, as well as the imperfect state of medical science, would respectively admit. It includes almost every object more or less connected with rural, domestic, and animal economy.
Hence the reader will find numerous experiments related, many hundreds of which have not before been published in the English language.

With regard to the additions, the editor will observe, that no exertions shall be wanting on his part, to render them as useful as possible to the people of this country. The diseases commonly prevalent therein, with the most approved methods of prevention and cure, shall be particularly detailed. An account shall be given of all the discoveries which have been made in the United States; and many Machines for diminishing labour, which are peculiar thereto, shall be described, and illustrated in Plates. In short, every useful fact in rural and domestic economy, omitted by Dr. Wilkin, and which may be known to the editor, shall be inserted; and in order to take advantage of progressing improvements, arrangements have been made to have all the periodical works on the above subjects, forwarded as soon as published in England or France.

The Publishers have but little to add for themselves; knowing, that professors generally are, and perhaps ought to be, in a great measure, unavailing, they refer the Public to the books they have already published. They have given to the world two editions of Dr. Russell's Modern Europe, within the last three years; the manner, therefore, in which they execute their undertakings, can be ascertained. In the present work, if they do not advance much, they pledge themselves not to degenerate. It shall be printed in the first style of uniformity and taste. The Paper shall be superfine; and the Engravings at least equal to those in the London copy.

Conditions.

I. It shall be printed in five handsome octavo volumes. One volume shall be delivered every three months. Price to subscribers, two dollars and fifty cents per volume, in boards, payable on delivery.

II. The first volume shall appear on the first of April, 1803, and a volume regularly every three months afterwards.

III. It may be had in one delivery when signed, at twelve dollars and fifty cents,
